FAIRMOUNT NEWS.

Never Mind.

Never Mind.

What if some people slight you—
Never mind.

What if some people wrong you?

Still keep kind.

What if some ill judge you?
Unto yourself be true,
By doing unto them as you
Would have them do.

What if some snub you
For the clothes you wear?
What if some slight you because
You lack a stylish air?
What does it really matter?
Do not hold a spite.
Cheerily tread life's pathway
Leading unto right. Leading unto right.

Ever greet people kindly
With a smile;
We are only here for a little while,
Oftentimes a smile has lightened The heavy load Of some weary wayfarer on life's dreary

What if some do have more money
Than you have?
What if some can do that
Which you cannot do?
You can try to do your very best, Day by day, me one better for your pass-

Try to forgive the wrongs others do you, You will need forgiveness for the wrongs

you do;
Always do your duty with a kine word or smile.
And you'll find all wrong righted in the "afterwhile."

POEMS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW

MY HEART AND I.

By ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING

Other selections by this author, her portrait, autograph and biographical sketch, have already been printed in this series.

NOUGH! we're tired, my heart and I. We sit beside the headstone thus, And wish that name were carved for us. The moss reprints more tenderly The hard types of the mason's knife, As heaven's sweet life renews earth's life. With which we're tired, my heart and I.

You see we're tired, my heart and I. We dealt with books, we trusted men, And in our own blood drenched the pen, As if such colors could not fly. We walked too straight for fortune's end, We loved too true to keep a friend; At last we're tired, my heart and I.

How tired we feel, my heart and I! We seem of no use in the world; Our fancies hang gray and uncurled About men's eyes indifferently; Our voice, which thrilled you so, will let You sleep; our tears are only wet; What do we here, my heart and I?

So tired, so tired, my heart and I! It was not thus in that old time, When Ralph sat with me 'neath the lime To watch the sunset from the sky. 'Dear love, you're looking tired," he said: I, smiling at him, shook my head. now we're tired, my heart and I.

So tired, so tired, my heart and I! Though now none takes me on his arm To fold me close and kiss me warm Till each quick breath end in a sigh Of happy languor. Now, alone, We lean upon this graveyard stone, Uncheered, unkissed, my heart and I.

Suppose the world brought diadems To tempt us, crusted with loose gems Of powers and pleasures? Let it try. We scarcely care to look at even A pretty child or God's blue heaven. We feel so tired, my heart and I.

Yet who complains? My heart and I? In this abundant earth no doubt Is little room for things worn out; Disdain them, break them, throw them by! And if before the days grew rough We once were loved, used-well enough, I think we've fared, my heart and I.

Judge Farman Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. T. William Pemberton entertained on Wednesday evening Bon. Floort E. Farman, of Warsaw, New York. Judge Farman was former consul general to Egypt, and he and his hosts greatly enjoyed discussing pleasant days spant a Cairo, some years ago. The judge's travels have been most extensive, he having crossed the ocean twenty-eight times. 186 N. Sycamore St., Petersburg, Va. His intelligent conversation is most delightful, in recounting experiences at the Red Sea and on Mt. Sinal, where the law was given to Moses, as well as in Palestine and all through Turkey and Egypt. It was he who arranged the transfer of the famous Obelisk, known as "Cleopatra's Needle." now in Central Park, New York, in 1873.

Judge Ffrman is the author of "Along the Nile with General Grant," and other well known works. He left on Thusday morning for New York city, so well pleased with Richmond and its people that he contemplates spending next winter here with his wife and daughters.

GIRLS' SHIRRED DRESS.

No. 3095—This sweetly pretty little sunday frock was made of pale leather-colored albatross, trimmed with creamy white Yalenclennes lace bands. The waist is built upon a fitted 'lining, which may be used as a guimpe and inished with either high or low neck. The outer material is shirred to 'fit the yoke, which may be of alloyer lace or of any preferred material. The sleeves may be made in either ebow or full length, and finished with deep cuff or with lace ruffle. The skirt is shirred to the waist and has the fashionable fullness at bottom. The whole design is exceedingly dressy and extremely easy to make. It is suited to all kinds of soft fabrics, such as cashmers, Nun's veiling, challe, albatross, crepe de chine, delaine, organde, mull, chambray and soft fancy cottons.

Pattern 'No. 2093 is cut in sizes 6, 8, 10 and 12 years, and requires 47-8 yards of material 80 inches wide, for the cigntyear size.
